Still Waiting For My Premium Bonds Syndicate To Win A Prize

I remember first hearing of the premium bonds when I was a child and it was generally something I used to overhear in a conversation my Grandparents having. Sometimes I would hear of friends being given an amount of premium bonds as a gift from Grandparents or it was something left in a will. "It was something that never really interested me" I never thought I would be wondering have I won the premium bonds or not.

That was not until moving from the UK and still wanting to play the UK Lottery games so I went on a search of a way to play them from outside the country. I managed to find a syndicate and found this the best and cheapest method for me which also includes a number of entries into the UK premium bonds draws.

Although I do not have any savings in the form of premium bonds I do have 15 numbers entered every month without fail via my syndicate. Although I have had prizes numerous times from the Euromillions and UK Lottery I am still waiting to win a prize from the premium bonds. I don't hope for much "The odds of lotteries eh?" but I do prefer to play with more chances for much less money.

You can track my syndicate results and lottery winnings if you wish, I will let you know when I have won a premium bonds prize.
